

The New Breed II

In a world that values power and might,
We were not seen in a favorable light,
Chosen by God from the humble and meek,
To bring His wisdom to all we seek.
Not born into riches or fame,
But we were chosen just the same,
The foolish to shame the wise,
The weak to shame the strong, we rise.
From a realm beyond this earthly one,
We know our true journey has just begun,
Our citizenship in a kingdom divine,
Where eternity's treasures forever shine.
In our minds, heaven does dwell,
Where the keys to the kingdom do tell,
Of alchemy and dreams coming true,
Turning life's trials into golden hue.
For we are made in the image of God,
With the power to conquer and to applaud,
Born with the keys to unlock the gate,
And transcend the illusions of earthly fate.
Though Satan may try to lead us astray,
There comes a time when the light shines our way,
A metamorphosis of spirit and mind,
Revealing the truths we were meant to find.
Drawn together by the law of attraction,
Unveiling the depths of our spiritual faction,
United in purpose and unbreakable bond,
To create a new world where love is beyond.
By God's spirit, not by our own might,
We stand as beacons in the darkest night,
Predestined before time began,
To bring forth the dawn of a new, divine plan.

So join us, the chosen, the despised,
For in our unity, true power lies,
As we strive to create a world anew,
Becoming one with the New Breed true.
